The Sepik Development Project: a nation-building pathway for Frieda River

The Sepik Development Project contemplates four interdependent projects that span the provinces of West and East Sepik in northwest Papua New Guinea. The Project focuses on the development of shared-use infrastructure that will support, and in turn be supported by, a world-class hydroelectric facility and copper-gold mining operation. This inclusive development model represents a transformative, nation-building opportunity for the people and Government of Papua New Guinea.

Join us for a 'Business Breakfast' to hear the latest Project developments from PanAust General Manager – Technical Services and Project Director for the Sepik Development Project, Scott Cowie.

Scott Cowie

PanAust General Manager
Technical Services

Scott is a chartered mining engineer. He is responsible for technical support and studies for PanAust's mining operations and projects. This includes progressing studies from concept to feasibility level, overseeing the environmental impact assessment process, life of mine planning, tailings storage facility stewardship, and mine closure planning.

As Project Director for the Sepik Development Project in Papua New Guinea, Scott is responsible for the Project's permitting, government and external affairs and community development programs.
