Business Breakfast with Jack Growden

Conquering Digital Inequality in PNG and Asia Pacific

Jack Growden began the LiteHaus journey by donating his personal laptop to the remote Kuta Primary School in PNG and promising to return to establish a ground-breaking computer lab. Having now provided over 150,000+ students in four countries with digital learning tools and opportunities, Jack's sights are now set on impacting one million people by 2027.

RSVP now to secure your seat at our business breakfast to hear more from Jack Growden, Litehaus CEO.
